EIGHTEENTH SUNDAY OF THE YEAR

Jesus' response to the crowd's needs was an in-breaking of God's kingdom, embodied by the very person and presence of Jesus whom the crowd sought. If we are the presence of the risen Christ today, then we too are an in-breaking of God's kingdom when we reach out in compassion to satisfy the needs of others.

One challenge, then, of our everyday living of the paschal mystery is to see in the self-sacrificing dying we embrace for the sake of others an in-breaking of God's presence and kingdom. In other words, our compassion and care for others is more than simply satisfying another's need (as important even as that is in itself); like Jesus, our compassion carries with it the foretaste of eternal life. This places our everyday self-sacrificing in a whole different context, and so we are better able to see how our dying to self leads to rising and eternal life.

At the same time, sometimes we must hold our own hands out and say, "I'll have some of that." We must be willing to receive the life that divine presence brings, whether that comes through liturgy and prayer or through the goodness of others. And, always, we are given life in abundance.

A FAMILY PERSPECTIVE

The apostles were just being practical when they asked Jesus to “dismiss the crowds to go buy food.” Jesus knew there is always enough when we place our trust in the Father, even with just 5 loaves and fishes. Trust is the bridge to miracles.
