FIFTH SUNDAY OF LENT

Such fundamental expressions of life and death are at the heart of today's gospel. Jesus deliberately was not present with Martha, Mary, and their brother Lazarus. It seems Jesus wanted to be sure Lazarus was understood to be dead, not merely sleeping or sick, so that Jesus could raise him from the dead. As a result, many began to believe in Him—that He has been sent by the Father.

What do we believe about Jesus? Do we believe He is the author of life with power over death? Are there any people like Lazarus in our own lives who need to be raised to new life? Lazarus was a prefiguring of the Resurrection. And yet, even Lazarus died again. Jesus' own Resurrection is not a mere resuscitation, but a raising to new life, qualitatively different, never subject to death again. When we live with the promise of renewed life for eternity, we are living the promise of the paschal mystery.
